

Bio: Scott Marion, Ph.D. is the Vice President of the National Center for the Improvement in Educational Assessment, Inc. where his current projects include developing and implementing a framework for evaluating the technical quality of state alternate assessment systems, exploring the instructional usefulness of interim assessment approaches, and helping states design valid accountability systems. A former biologist and high school science teacher with a Master's in Science Education from the University of Maine, Scott received his Ph.D. from the University of Colorado, Boulder under the guidance of Lorrie Shepard and Robert Linn. Scott has become a recognized national leader in designing statewide assessment and accountability systems under No Child Left Behind. Prior to joining the Center for Assessment, Scott was most recently the Director of Assessment and Accountability for the Wyoming Department of Education and was responsible for overseeing the Wyoming Comprehensive Assessment System and designing the technical and policy structures to implement the Body of Evidence assessment system, a multiple-measures, locally-created collection evidence used to determine whether high school students met the state graduation requirements.
